Chairman's Comments

Fellow Republicans —

I liken 2020 to a never ending and worst dumpster fire ever! That said, what our Republican candidates, volunteers and voters did was nothing short of amazing! Our RED WAVE was a thing to behold. In the November article I stated, "Even in the face of adversity and uncertainty we must remember that our sheer determination and perseverance is truly needed to ensure winning in the upcoming election. Winning will require us to truly turn out the vote. We must do all that we can to encourage our friends, family and acquaintances to vote Republican".

Folks, you did just that! With a voter turnout that exceeded 66% we made a resounding impact on our county and State. An impact that will serve us and future generations well. From the Presidential perspective, we delivered big, unfortunately the result from a national perspective was not the outcome we desired. That said, each and every one of you should be very proud of our Republican team and what's been accomplished.

Though we did not win every race, I want to congratulate all of our candidates, their committees and volunteers for all their efforts reaching out to voters and making this election successful. Though we will not be able to gather at our Christmas Party and it appears that we will not have an inauguration of our local winners do to COVID-19, we will still celebrate in spirit and look forward to our party's reorganization day on Saturday, March 6th at 10:00 a.m. The location of that event remains to be determined and will be based on COVID-19 status and restrictions.

Finally, I want to thank all of you once again for all you do for our party. I look forward to the successes created by the excellent leadership we've elected. I pray for an end to this pandemic and everyone's health. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All!!!

WASHINGTON, D.C.—In an honest and heartfelt talk with reporters, Kamala Harris discussed some of the tough decisions they now have to face in light of Biden's ankle injury. Harris is assuring the public these decisions will be handled with the utmost sensitivity and compassion.

"I can tell you this," said Harris. "Joe will be kept comfortable. He will be resuscitated if I wish, and then a discussion will ensue between me and my doctor about how we should move forward in the most humane way possible. In the end, this must always be the woman's choice, and I will make this choice privately between me and my doctor."

One reporter pointed out that Kamala's statement was remarkably similar to what Governor Ralph Northam said about babies who survive abortions.

"Yeah, that's no coincidence," said Harris. "Joe Biden's existence is inconvenient for me and my presidential ambitions. I owe my career to the right to choose, and I will exercise that right whenever I can!"

Harris then threw back her head and cackled for five minutes straight, causing all the reporters in the room to nervously join in.

In Dangerous Decision, SCOTUS Rules First Amendment Can Stay

November 28th, 2020

WASHINGTON, DC—In a landmark 5-4 decision led by alleged dogmatic constitutional extremist Amy Coney Barrett, the Supreme Court has decided the First Amendment can stay.

"This blatantly anti-science decision will kill trillions of people," said CNN reporter Dan Bernapinkle. "We here at CNN tried to warn you that Trump's SCOTUS nominees would usher in a dark age of wanton freedom in direct violation of Science's wishes, but no one heard our warnings because the airports were closed due to COVID."

In her written opinion, which she wrote in 3 minutes without consulting any notes, ACB said: "Yeah... so, the First Amendment includes freedom of religion and assembly. I asked my clerks to see whether there was a 'virus clause' somewhere in there and they didn't find any. I'm just a Supreme Court Justice and I'm not allowed to remove amendments, so yeah -- the First Amendment stays. Sorry, guys."

In his dissenting opinion, Justice Roberts said, "Someone help me. Decisions are scary. I'm not anti-science! Am I doing this right? Please love me!"

According to experts, Science is angrily demanding that the First Amendment be done away with completely to protect public health. Democrats are recommending stacking the court before Science gets even angrier.

The Babylon Bee

It's a plague on our nation: homeschooling. From religious weirdos to dummies who don't think the public school system is teaching us English very good, parents are flocking to homeschooling in droves.

But you don't have to sit idly by while kids in your neighborhood suffer. You can be on the lookout for kids who are homeschooled, so you can be sure their weirdness doesn't rub off on your kiddos. Here are ten easy-to-recognize warning signs that someone in your community is homeschooled:

- 1. They can do simple math problems in their head. This is an obvious one, but if they don't have to take their shoes off to do 5×6 or $9 + 2$, they're probably homeschooled.
- 2. They read books. Also, they know what a book is.
- 3. They use big words and phrases like "Hello" and "Greetings, good sir, what a jolly fine day it is." This one's a toss-up: they're either homeschooled or British. If they have a pipe and monocle, they're probably just British.
- 4. They snort in derision whenever they hear the phrase "Millions of years ago..." Eye-rolling also occurs from time to time, or they respond with, "Well, actually..."
- 5. They count all the way to 10 during hide-and-seek. Public school kids often start mumbling around six or seven, which are toughies.
- 6. They put "science" in air quotes. Whenever they talk about "science," look for the tell-tale air quotes and mocking tone.
- 7. They think "Fortnite" is a reference to a two-week period of time. As it should be.
- 8. On the girls, the floor-length denim skirts are a dead giveaway. If it's a boy wearing a denim skirt, then he's definitely a public-schooler.
- 9. When they hear "Homer," they think "Iliad" rather than "Simpson." To be honest, they're not even sure what The Simpsons is.
- 10. They are polite, thoughtful, and well-adjusted. This is a sure sign of a homeschooled kid. Dangerous and terrifying.

Remember, if you see something, say something.
